

9.2_Cornell example

Review	Notes
Summary

9.2_Cornell example

Review	Notes
reduce • recite • review • You complete this column after the lecture. • Here you write only important cue words and questions. • Later, this column becomes your study or revision notes. You can use it by covering the right-hand column and using the cue words and questions here to remember the contents on the right.	record • You complete this column first. It contains the notes you take during the lecture (or while reading). • You should underline headings and indent/bullet main ideas. • After the lecture, you need to identify the key points and write them in the Review column as questions or cue words.
Summary
reflect • recite • review • You use this space to summarize the main points.	